

Charlie Tefft Workshop from Home Chat Transcript

9.18.25

- 00:33:39 Kaitlynn Flanigan: Resources:
<https://ceramicartsnetwork.org/docs/default-source/webinar-resources/workshop-from-home-with-charlie-tefft-091825.pdf>
- 00:34:01 Kaitlynn Flanigan: jharnetty@ceramics.org
- 01:11:08 Charlie Tefft - Wide Shot: It took me a long time to figure out handles. I think it is one of the more overlooked aspects of making pots. My best advice is to make them thin where you want them to bend, and make them fairly vertical if they are for more than one finger.
- 01:22:23 Charlie Tefft - Wide Shot: I poured lots of glaze over these pieces before i figured out the masking tape. 🤔
- 01:22:55 Ash Neukamm: That was a great glazing hack! Do you ever have issues with tape residue, or is that not really an issue with the blue painter's tape?
- 01:24:38 Charlie Tefft - Wide Shot: I have not had issues with tape residue. it usually has a very short time on the clay. I've used all kinds of masking tapes. Whatever is available.
- 01:34:19 Charlie Tefft - Wide Shot: These washes are based on proportions that I saw in Val Cushing's handbook. Melter to oxide. You can try other proportions and get different results.
- 01:46:11 Bill Janeri: Yes, Amazon sells dental tools.
- 01:46:31 Kaitlynn Flanigan: Here are some dental tools you can get on Amazon:
<https://tinyurl.com/2wx4zhes>